JAMES G. BLAINE will under no circumstances be a candidate for the presidency at the coming election, which fact is universally regretted by the republicans of Minnesota, but it is no wise weakness of the party strength in this state. The November election will show that we are loyal to the interests of the party, no matter whether the standard bearer be Blaine, Har-risson or any other staunch republican. The Minnesota convention will certainly name the winner.

For Manufacturing Concerns.

The Industrial and Commercial

Union is the name which has been adopted for the new citizen's organization, and the name carries quite a scope of work which has been laid out by the people interested. The meeting on Tuesday evening at Mr. Lum's office, was quite an enthusiastic one,

there being some thirty or forty representative men present. The by-laws and general rules to govern its future actions were adopted, and A.

F. Ferris was elected treasurer and

Wm. Williamson vice-president. The other officers were published in the last issue. The board of directors is to meet on the first and third Tuesdays of each month, and is to be the working committee of the Union.

The regular meetings will be upon the second Monday of each month at 8 p. m. Mr. Lum having kindly donated his office as a meeting place.

The admission fee is but $1 and any citizen of Brainerd can become a member. The membership roll is now in the hands of A. J. Halsted, secretary, where any one can, by paying the fee, become a member and receive a card.

A very important feature will be the effort to increase and promote the settlement of this county, and from indications there is evidence of much good that can be accomplished in this matter in the near future.

The organization will undoubtedly

The first overhead trolley electric street railroad in England is under construction in the suburbs of Leeds by an American company.

ONLY one woman of the upper class in Egypt is permitted to see men. She is the widow Princess Naza, for whom the Sultan has issued an order granting her that privilege.

GOVERNOR RUSSELL, of Massachusetts, has a salary of $5,000, and the Mayor of Boston receives $10,000 a year. There is a movement to remedy this inequality by increasing the salary of the Chief Magistrate.

SENOR MOTA, a moral reformer who is Mayor of Mosquera, a town in the United States of Columbia, has decreed that women arrested for disorderly conduct in his bailiwick shall have their hands shaven before they are set at liberty again.

The travel by water in Maine for the year 1891 amounted to over 2,000,000 persons. Of this the Casco Bay Steamboat Company carried 400,507, or about one-half of all. This shows the extent of pleasure travel in and about Portland harbor.

Those who know Thomas A. Edison will not need to wait for his denial of the interview in which he is reported as advocating whipping the Chilians by a fire-engine charged with electricity. Somebody should turn that hose on the fakir who was responsible for that yarn.

The development of the science of electricity has created a demand for very fine wires. The platinum wires in incandescent lamps are drawn through sapphire plates, and the very finest platinum wires are used in many delicate and sensitive electrical instruments.

ELI WHITNEY BLAKE, nephew of Eli Whitney, of cotton-gin fame invented the Blake ore crusher now in use all over the world. Like his uncle, he was robbed of the profits of his invention by imitations. Both inventors were born in Westboro, Mass., and both are buried in New Haven, Ct.

BARONESS BERTHA VON LUTINER, of Austria, author of the book, "Away with War Weapons," and one of the principal delegates to the recent Peace Congress in Rome, has established a monthly magazine in Berlin for the purpose of promulgating her views regarding the uselessness of war.

The exceeding brevity of obituary notices of the disreputable Grand Duke Constantine suggests the obsequies of the unpopular early settler. When painful silence prevailed in the house of mourning where it was customary to extol the virtues of the departed, a German broke the silence by remarking, "Well, he was a good smoker."

GENERAL O. O. HOWARD is not a tall man, but he has a distinctive military bearing, and is easily picked up in a company. He invariably wears a military coat that hides an empty coat sleeve, having lost an arm in the battle of Fort Oaks. He is a charming story-teller, a good speaker and very charitable.

The Emperor William, of Germany, before he came to the throne, was much given to skating, and was frequently seen on the ice with his wife. He would not skate on his shoulder and she on his, and then they would skate forward and backward. Their skill excited wide admiration, and the fashion they set was taken up by many other people.

A NEW cause has arisen for a lawsuit. A woman in France was notified by the authorities of a lunatic asylum of her brother's death. She went to the funeral, and ordered a hearse to come. Her mother-in-law was so grieved at her son's death that the plaintiff had to give up her situation to take care of her. Then she learned that the directors of the asylum had made a mistake, and that her brother was alive. After unsuccessful efforts for compensation she has gone to the court, claiming heavy damages for grief and injury.

The late John Sharp was the last of the old Mormon leaders and had been a resident of Utah forty years, Scotland was his native land, and he worked for years in the coal mines of that country. After joining Brigham Young's society he became a director or stockholder in many Mormon enterprises. Of the Deseret he was president, and of the Union of Utah he was a director. In the church he was a bishop. His wives were three in number, and his family was large.

Just how important to Chili are its nitrate beds shown by the output from them last year. Roundly this aggregated 1,000,000 tons, representing a value of $30,000,000. Upon this Chili levied an export duty of about $12,000,000. The beds are worked by about a dozen different companies and the titles to them are vested in these. Had Chili preferred to use an apology these beds would undoubtedly have been sources of hostility. No more serious blow could have been struck at Chili's revenues than by checking the working of these beds.

As an article of industrial use, the fibrous covering of the cocconut is much in demand, under the form of cord, for making ropes, mats, etc. Coir is now well known to be one of the best materials for cables, on account of its elasticity.

The Moscov Gazette published an article, in which it says the German colonists in Russia are the advance guard of the German army.

The Westminster chapter of the Knights of the Maccabees is a shipwreck in succession to the late Cardinal Manning. The meeting Feb. 13 will forward the nomination to the Vatican.

SPAKIN' THE TROTH FOR MAY.

"Not for the world—not for ten thousand worlds! In this seemingly exaggerated language, Helen, I only speak the truth. Living in the universe would tempt me to bind myself to that fatal engagement from which I am now so honorably and so happily free," exclaimed the young man, earnestly.

"You astound me beyond measure. Will you explain how this occurred? I hope it was not you, Joseph, who first broke the engagement," said Helen, in a deeply interested manner.

"No; it was not I who broke the troth. Lizzy's death this morning freed me from the consequences of a tremendous mistake that might have ruined her happiness, and that must have ruined mine."

"But why did she do this? I hope you gave her no just cause?"

"None."

"Why, then, was your marriage broken off?"

"Because she did not love me at all!"

"And when did she first find this out?"

"When she found out that my uncle had disinherited me, and my employers had discharged me, and that I was in fact, an almost penniless man without visible means of supporting a wife."

"And has your uncle indeed disinherited you?" inquired Helen in consternation.

"He has indeed, Helen."

"But for Heaven's sake, upon what account?"

"Speaking the truth."

"Yes, Helen, for confessing, when the question was forced upon me, that I could not be absolutely inconceivable if he were to die."

"But how strange! Did he really expect you to be so?"

"I do not know, but all events he did not like to be told otherwise."

"But what an unreasonable old soul! Why, even parents do not wish their children to break their hearts from excess of filial piety at their decease."

"No; but you see uncles are more egotistical and less disinterested than parents."

"And has he really disinherited you upon this account?"

"Yes."

"What a very weak old man; and how very unfortunate that you should have been compelled by truth to wound him in this weak point!"

"In me, indeed, but not in the case."

"And you told me, I think, that your employers had—"

"Dismissed me; yes."

"Strange that such misfortunes should have happened to you upon the same day!"

"And for the same cause, Helen."

"For the same cause?"

"Yes, for speaking the truth!"

"For speaking the truth?"

"Yes."

"How singular!—and how unlucky that you should have been obliged to speak so many offensive truths in so short a time as to deprive you of your inheritance and your employment!"

"But how can you do this, my instance? What fatal facts were you compelled to divulge?"

"When plainly questioned by our customers, to confess that the prints marked 'fast colors' would fade; and that the shawls were 'French' and 'English, worth only two shillings; and so on through a morning of usual cross-examination by customers, to whom this morning I resolved to answer truly."

"Merry on us!—then I don't wonder that you were discharged. And for these reasons your betrothed declared you!"

"For these reasons, really, Helen; but ostensibly for the same cause that lost me my inheritance and my situation."

"You do not mean for speaking the truth?"

"Yes."

"But what unpardonable truths could you have had to tell your betrothed?"

"First, that she was not an angel; secondly, that she was even a coquette; and thirdly, that she was not the same man."

"You were finding fault with her?"

"No, I was finding fault with the truth in reply to questions and observations she pressed upon me; nor would she have taken offense at my answers had she not been so miserably in love with me, because I had lost everything, and was therefore no longer an eligible match for her."

"She would have been ashamed to be taken with me upon such a subject of my misfortunes, but she eagerly seized upon the opportunity that my truth-telling afforded her. But I had better tell you all about it, Helen, and then you will understand the subject better."

"And Joseph related nearly word for word all that had happened to himself and Lizzy, and ended by saying—"

"Thus, you see, I made the discovery of how wrong I had been in my treacherousness to her, and I was about to commit my whole life's welfare to her."

"I found out in the same moment that her apparent self-interest had been no more than a mask for her true nature, and that mine for her had been a moral illusion dispelled by the touchstone of truth. So, Helen, do not wonder at my having been so miserably in love with her, and so miserably deceived by her."

ited five thousand pounds with them, to Joseph Morris's credit, upon condition of their taking him into partnership on his marriage.

All this came out through the obligatory truth-telling on both sides; and finally, it broke upon them like a sunburst that it was truth-telling, which had brought him all this happiness at last.

"God bless the truth! Longlive the truth!" cried the young man, with scraps at first, but he brought me gloriously through them all; and henceforth I will speak the truth, and nothing but the truth, so long as I live," exclaimed Joseph, with enthusiasm, as late that evening, he took a happy leave of Helen, and three himself into an omnibus.

CHAPTER VII.

Over all the hills of Scotland!

Joseph Morris was just stepping out of the omnibus at the station, with a face perfectly radiant with happiness, wild with joy, when a familiar voice, in a very unfamiliar tone, struck his ears.

"Ah! there he is, poor, dear fellow! Thank Heaven, we have found him at last! But good gracious, how did he come to be here?"

"The world is as large as a leop and dance. Anybody, only to see him now, would know as how he was ransomed. Joy, my poor dear, how do you know your old aunt?"

Inquired good Mrs. Morris, looking anxiously into his face.

As she asked this question, a gleam of delight flashed across his face, and he answered her with a smile.

"Know you? Why, what should hinder me from knowing you? To be sure I know you, Aunt Molly! And oh, aunt I am so happy!"

"Are you, poor, dear innocent?" she said, in a coaxing tone, edging cautiously away from him. Then turning to the policeman who was attending her, she whispered—

"He gets wilder and wilder; you'd better secure him at once, before he does himself any harm. He's a nuisance, and you'd better slip the cords on him, for fear he should break away; but oh, Mr. Policeman, he'd be rougher than you can handle him, as if he were a convict, which there never was one in our family. Be gentle with him, poor unfortunate!"

Joseph Morris, with a silly oblivious or incredulous about Harry Blewitt's threat of Bellman, gazed from one to the other in wild surprise, joined to the excessive delight that radiated from his face, and the authentic accounts of his strange behavior during the day, certainly warranted the strongest suspicions of his sanity.

"And you told me, I think, that your employers had—"

"Dismissed me; yes."

"Strange that such misfortunes should have happened to you upon the same day!"

"And for the same cause, Helen."

About half a dozen men and women started forward and began to speak at once.

"One at a time! One at a time! My dear, dear, dear friends! Mrs. Morris, do you speak first, and pray tell us what you observed in the appearance of your nephew when he first came down in the morning?" inquired Dr. Cotton.

"La, doctor! when he entered the breakfast-room, which is just behind this room, you know, he looked very odd about the eyes, and said his head felt queer."

"Yes, and then?"

ALL DANCE ATTENDANCE.

Peculiar Advantages Possessed by Women Who Practice Law.

Whatever disadvantages a woman lawyer may be under in the practice of her profession, she has certain compensating advantages which her brothers at the bar can never enjoy.

A little incident in the chambers party of the supreme court, the other day will illustrate this point. It was Monday, which is always the busiest day of the week in this branch of the court.

There was an unusually large calendar this day, and although it was almost 1 o'clock the courtroom was still crowded with fifty or sixty lawyers, who had been waiting impatiently since 11 o'clock to argue their motions or to get ex-parte orders signed.

There was an unusually large pile of these orders on the judge's desk waiting to be signed, because his honor had been so busy that he had been unable to attend them.

A modest-looking, neatly-dressed young woman came into the courtroom, and walked up to the judge's desk. She walked up to the rail, while the clerk quickly came forward, all attention. He took the papers which she carried and handed them to the judge immediately, while the court officers hustled around and brought her a chair. The arguments of the legal lights were stopped. His honor took the papers, glanced over them quickly, and put some hieroglyphics, which stood for his signature, at the bottom of them, the clerk handed the papers to the young woman, and in less than five minutes after she entered the courtroom the woman lawyer had accomplished her object and gone back to her office.

Just as she was disappearing through the door a lawyer's clerk came up to the rail.

"The judge signed that order?" inquired the clerk.

"He signed it this morning," he asked.

"No," was the reply, "he will not sign any orders before 2 or 3 o'clock."

THE MIND TAKES A NAP.

Moments That Are Erroneously Believed To Be Spent in Thought.

In private conversation one day last week one of Chicago's oldest and most learned physicians gave utterance to the following:

"Why is it that when we see a person gazing fixedly for several moments at a certain point on the floor or in the street, we say he or she is thinking hard about something? Nine times in ten the person thus engaged—ordinarily—is thinking of nothing. At such times, if you only knew it, the mind is really at rest. The person is not thinking hard about anything. It is his mind that is taking a nap, and it is a question in our mind whether the good which they accomplish in poultry economy ends with the good which they do to the world. To obtain the shells for use, those living in the neighborhood of large towns or villages can have them for the price of a few cents. The shells of your fowls do not get crushed as well as the shells. Once, at least, in three or four days, you should add to the shells of your fowls, which are probably, a barrel will last 50 hens for a year or more—American Poultry Yard.

When water in ravines is discolored by the drainage from the barn yards which border them somebody is paying dearly for his improvidence and laziness, says Drainage Journal. There may have been some excuse for first settlers locating their feeding troughs in the places where the streams, but the practice ought to have been abandoned long ago. The yards should be removed from the ravine and placed in a more elevated position, and the necessary bleaker should be erected. Keep your stock confined to the yards and stables as much as possible, and do not let them range over the fields. If a cow has mischievous in her, it is better to let her range over the fields than to let her range over the fields.

Something does not come of nothing. The elements of the crop must be in the soil. It is the last word of nature that feeds your crop. All before feeds the land.

The best and most excellent articles of food for poultry is wheat, or parched corn.

Poultry should be fed regularly, and a change should not be made in food too often.

Keep the barnyard cleared up. A clean and tidy barnyard causes you more trouble than it would to keep the yard clean for a life time.

It is of no use to attempt to run a dairy properly unless the utensils are thoroughly cleaned. Rinsing is not enough. Use a little elbow grease.

The vast majority of cows will respond promptly to kind treatment. A cow has mischievous in her, it is better to let her range over the fields than to let her range over the fields.

Run nothing that can be rotted by plowing it down or burying it in the manure pile. One exception to this—wheat that has seeds mature enough to grow. Burn them mature and keep under shelter in the open yard, and do not let them range over the fields.

The only safe plan for the poultry keeper is to be prepared for a cold and snowy winter, for it is the unexpected that happens.

Feeling stemming out messes, red pepper, ginger, etc., subject fowls to attacks of cold and roup. Be sparing with your stimulants.

When training a colt, don't hitch it with a slow walking horse. A fast walking horse is a most satisfactory rooster, and if taught this when first broken they seldom forget it.

If your horse is not doing well, and you think he ought to, look at his teeth. Young horses sometimes have a bad set of teeth, and so go to a veterinarian and have them evened.

Kinds of Toothache.

For ordinary nervous toothache, which is caused by the nervous system being out of order or by excessive fatigue, a very hot bath will soothe the nerves that sleep will naturally follow, and upon getting up the patient will feel much refreshed and the toothache will be a thing of the past.

For what is known as "jumping tooth," or toothache which is caused by the face and neck is very effective. For common toothache, which is caused by indigestion or by strong sweet colic, or anything of the sort, a cold in a decayed tooth, a little piece of cotton steeped in strong camphor oil or cloves is the best remedy.

The Rival Story-Tellers.

A gentleman narrated a tale-splitter at the dinner-table. Everybody burst out laughing except one of the guests who was deaf. Jealous of the success of the narrator, the latter exclaimed—

"I know a good one too."

And upon getting up the patient will feel much refreshed and the toothache will be a thing of the past.

SOME FARMING HINTS.

INTERESTING READING FOR SONS OF THE SOIL.

Animal and Commercial Manures. Hens Must Have Ground Shells.—Wasted Fertility.—Agricultural Items.

Animal and Commercial Manures. The necessity of the use of the so-called commercial or artificial manures in farming and gardening operations increases every year. In many localities agriculture could not be carried on with profit without them.

Yet where it is possible to obtain good barnyard manure in sufficient quantity to maintain the fertility of the soil, nothing has yet been found, alone or in combination, to equal it. But let emphasis be put upon "good."

It too often occurs that the substances sent to the fields as a fertilizer has left the greater part of its value behind it in the barnyard or along the roadside into which the rains have leached most of its fertilizing elements. An animal manure that has been well cared for, and goes to the fields in the best possible condition is a fertilizer that can be depended upon to enrich the soil.

A banquet was tendered True Moores, Jr., on Saturday evening by a number of his friends, the occasion being the 23d anniversary of his birth. Sanborn furnished the supper.

Lumbermen are scarce now and it is said that every available man is being sent into the woods. There are double the number of men at work in the pines this winter to what there was last.

J. W. Bailey returned from Iroquois, Ontario, on Saturday last, where he has been visiting during the past six weeks. He was accompanied by his brother, David Bailey, who will spend the summer here.

At the annual election held Tuesday evening at the Congregational church, Bruce Parker was elected clerk; J. C. Congdon, deacon; D. R. Craig, chorister; Mrs. Lillie Follet, church treasurer; P. M. Lagerstedt and A. E. Lossey, trustees.

John McGillis, father of Mrs. John Bishop at Gull Lake, died on Sunday at the advanced age of 85 years, the funeral occurring in this city on Tuesday, being conducted by Rev. Father Lawlor. Deceased was one of the oldest residents in this part of the state.

The Atkin Age says: Miss Lotv Grandelmyer, the fashionable milliner of Brainerd, was in town Monday last, seeking a suitable store building in which to open up a large stock of millinery, etc., on April 1st. She secured one-half of store No. 3, of the Foley block.

A bushel of corn makes four gallons of whiskey, remarks an exchange, which retails at $16; of this the farmer gets 40 cents, the railroad company $1, the United States $3, the manufacturer $4 and the vendor $7, and the drinker—sixty days and the delirium tremens.

Active preparations are being made by Brainerd Lodge No. 47, A. O. U. W., to celebrate the anniversary of the founding of the order on March 10th. A musical and literary entertainment will be given, and a social hop will probably follow. The lodge is in a very flourishing and prosperous condition, and one of the most popular in the city.

The "Dime Entertainment" at the Y. M. C. A. on Wednesday evening, Feb. 10th, fully sustained the high reputation for superior performances of the local talent of this city. The talent displayed was a marked feature of the occasion, and elicited high commendation from the large audience that was present.

A week from to-day will be the 28th anniversary of the founding of the order of Knights of Pythias, and the occasion will be celebrated in this city by the Brainerd knights with appropriate ceremonies, at Gardner Hall, to be followed by a sumptuous banquet. Several lodges in adjoining cities have been invited.

Have you got a ticket on the plush divan at C. H. Paine & Co's City Meat Market? If not, do so at once. You can secure one by buying your meats there, each cash purchase being punched out until it amounts to $5. You can have as many chances of drawing this elegant piece of parlor furniture as you have tickets. Don't delay, but secure one at once.

The Maennerchor masquerade takes place this evening and bids fair to be a splendid affair.

J. F. McGinnis has gone to the markets below for the purpose of laying in a spring stock for the co-operative work of which he is general manager.

An illustrated sermon will be given to the children by the pastor, at the 1st Congregational church, next Sunday morning at 10:30. All children connected with the Sunday school are invited to attend.

W. H. Everest, of Crow Wing, obtained a sub-contract for carrying the mail between this city and Leech Lake, and has already entered upon the work. He will provide the traveling public with suitable accommodations, and proposes to make the route a popular one.

The Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor will hold an anniversary meeting next Sunday evening at the 1st Congregational church. There will be printed programmes prepared especially for the occasion. New music and two short addresses. It will take the place of the evening service, and all interested are invited to attend.

The social given by the ladies of the Presbyterian society on Tuesday evening at the church was a decided success. There was a large attendance, numbering over one hundred. A good programme of literary exercises, music, tableaux, etc., and a nice lunch was served, and the proceeds were $14. These socials will be repeated in the future, trusting in the continued kind patronage of the public.

Another of those regular winter fatalities in the lumber camps occurred at the works of Fales & Wooden on Willow river, the victim this time being a Swede named Martin Olsson, aged 26 years. He was tending chain, and while helping to put on a load one of the logs rolled back on him, killing him instantly. His remains were brought to town and placed in the morgue. A brother in Minneapolis was notified by telegram.—Atkin Age.

The Criterion Comedy Co. has been filling a week's engagement at the opera house this week, standing room being at a premium on the opening night, the attendance being fair since then. The company contains some very good artists. This evening "Wedding March," a laughable farce comedy will be presented, and on the closing night (Saturday) "Maudie Muller," a domestic drama, will be produced. On Saturday evening a plush chair will be given away to the lucky ticket holder. The prices are 10, 20 and 30 cents.

A man named G. Anderson was brought down from Simpson's camp Tuesday night, who had been killed while working at the above place. He was engaged in tending sled and the chain broke letting the logs roll onto him, crushing his breast. As soon as the accident happened the unfortunate man was placed in a sleigh and started for Brainerd for medical aid, but he died just before the team reached Ami Gould's. His remains were brought to Lossey & Dean's and prepared for burial, being shipped to his sister, Mrs. Anna Hokinson, at 1610 Jefferson street, N. E. Minneapolis. He was unmarried and about 24 years old.

Deerwood News.

I. F. Lundstedt has recently lost two cows by some unknown disease.

Louis Carlson, who was seriously injured some time ago, is improving.

R. H. Morford has finished harvesting his ice crop and will furnish a supply for Mr. White, the hotel man. Many farmers are also putting up a supply for their use. The recent cold snap has made the ice of excellent quality.

That Deerwood has a dentist and a watch repairer is probably not generally known, but such is the case. Mr. Swenson, the new settler who took a homestead about three miles northwest of the station, is both a practical watchmaker and a dentist, and if anybody has the toothache or a watch that only shows the right time twice in every twenty-four hours can call on him.

Resolutions of Respect.

At a regular communication of Aurora Lodge No. 100, A. F. & A. M., held on Feb. 10th, 1892, the following preamble and resolutions were unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS, It has pleased the Great Architect of the Universe to remove from our midst our late brother, Donald McDonald, and

WHEREAS, It is but just that a fitting recognition of his many virtues should be had; therefore be it

RESOLVED, By Aurora Lodge No. 100, on the Registry of the Grand Lodge of Minnesota, of Ancient, Free and Accepted Masters, that, while we bow with humble submission to the will of the Most High, we do not the less mourn for our brother who has been taken from us.

RESOLVED, That, in the death of Donald McDonald, this Lodge laments the loss of a brother who was ever ready to proffer the hand of aid and the voice of sympathy to the needy and distressed of the fraternity; and active members of this society whose utmost endeavors were exerted for its welfare and prosperity; a friend and companion who was dear to us all; a citizen whose upright and noble life was a standard of emulation to his fellows.

RESOLVED, That while we deeply sympathize with her who was bound to our departed brother by the nearest ties, we share with her the hope of a reunion in that better world where there are no partings, and bliss ineffable forbids a tear.

RESOLVED, That these resolutions be spread upon the records of the Lodge and a copy thereof be transmitted to the widow of our deceased brother, and to each of the newspapers of Brainerd for publication.

A THRILLING EXPERIENCE.

A Former Brainerdite Tries to Run Down a "Green Goods" Establishment.

The country is now being flooded with circulars from "green goods" men in New York, and the man who has not received one is way behind the times. These circulars purport to be of a strictly confidential nature and usually start as follows:

"I heard of you through a mutual friend who spoke very highly of you as a shrewd, thoughtful man, and one who could be relied upon to keep a secret, and I am desirous of finding such a person to handle my goods. If this proposition is objectionable to you I pray you to destroy this letter and say nothing of its contents to any one," etc.

Then follows a proposition to furnish $4,000 worth of goods for $350, $5,500 worth for $500, and so on, with the privilege of a state right for $650. All business must be done in a strictly personal manner, and no letters will be received. Enclosed is a copy of a telegram which must be addressed to J. S. Stone, 179 East 120th St., N. Y. City. The telegram to be "Certify at 453," by which the dealer knows that a sucker wants instructions and will buy.

The scheme is to get the victim to go to New York and meet them, and then they will be shown a package of genuine bills which they are allowed to examine. When they purchase they are given packages done up, but exposing one genuine bill on the outside, while the remainder of the package does not contain even counterfeit goods—as this is too risky a business nowadays—but merely paper slips. The purchaser is instructed to carry them away in a grip which is provided, and when he finds he has been duped he can make no complaint without exposing himself.

Ed. Mahan, who formerly resided in this city, but who now lives at Little Falls, received one of these letters some weeks since, and being of a curious turn of mind, he answered the telegram in order to see what the result would be. As soon as the mail could bring it came an answer, and enclosed were three bills, a $5, $2 and $1. The instructions told Mr. Mahan to come on immediately and he would be met at Newberg, up the Hudson, about 60 miles from New York City, where the business would be transacted in a certain room at a hotel named in the letter. Mahan was to telegraph to the New York address again as soon as he reached Buffalo, and when he reached Newberg he was to know the man by his hat and a telegram which he was to have in his hands, displayed with large characters written in green ink.

After getting the letter his curiosity was greatly aroused, and the thought that he might be able to run these thieves down for the public benefit urged him to take some action in the matter. He took the $5 bill to a national bank, and with his day's deposit, he showed it under the window, but the cashier did not detect anything wrong with it and Mr. Mahan called his attention to it, saying he was a little suspicious of the bill, but it was examined and the bank expert pronounced it genuine; however, he did not leave it. That night he telegraphed the Pinkerton detective agency at Chicago the facts, and received word back to come on there immediately, which he did the next day, stopping only between trains at Chicago, where he was joined by a detective, the two journeyed east. At Buffalo Mr. Mahan followed the instructions and telegraphed ahead that he was coming, and the detective disguised himself, it being understood that they should keep apart from that time until the final wind-up came. At Newberg he got off the train and walked along the platform when he was suddenly jostled against and looking around he saw a man who said: "Excuse me, I thought I knew you," and in his hand was the telegram with the "green ink" characters. The two walked along and entered the hotel together, and the fellow said to him: "I'm sorry, but the old man couldn't get away, and you will have to go down to New York and see him if you have the money and are prepared to do business." They ate breakfast and the capper paid for it, and also for tickets to New York, to which place they journeyed together, but without speaking, the instructions being for Mahan to keep a hundred feet behind on their way from the car to the "business" place. In the meantime the detective was keeping a reasonable distance behind the two. The capper wound around among the buildings in the vicinity of the river and finally started down a narrow alley, and here the detective halted two policemen who were given the plan. Mahan followed his man down the alley and when he saw him walk up a plank and unlock the door of a warehouse which rested on piling over the river, his heart failed him but as he saw the detective in the vicinity he went in and the door was shut behind him, and he found himself in a large, unlighted room. His situation was not an enviable one, but with a gun in each coat pocket he thought he would be able to hold his own for a short time. Just as the capper called to his confederate in another room the policemen broke open the front door and the two men tried to escape but were captured. There was nothing in the building that would indicate a "green goods" establishment, neither of the men having any money on their persons, nor could any trace of such a thing as a counterfeit bill be found. Each of the men had a good sized slung-shot which was the only weapons they possessed. The men were tried and sentenced to five years in the penitentiary on the charge of using the mail for swindling.

Mr. Mahan fully thinks that their game was to get him into the building and there he was to be knocked down and robbed, as he had telegraphed them he had $500 to invest, and when he reads this article he will feel a certain degree of satisfaction to think he got out of it as lucky as he did, and also that he didn't undertake to run the "green goods" men to earth alone.

THE STRONGEST AND PUREST.

The Official Report of the Minnesota Dairy and Food Commission.

Shows the Superiority of the Royal Baking Powder.

The late report of the Minnesota State Food and Dairy Commission contains the details of the State Chemists' experiments and analyses to determine the strength and keeping qualities of the various baking powders. Samples of the numerous brands on sale in this State were purchased and first analyzed to ascertain their leavening power. The Royal Baking Powder is shown by the tests of both State analysts, Prof. Eberman and Prof. Drew, to contain the greatest amount of leavening gas of the cream of tartar powders thus purchased and tested. Hence this powder is officially ranked at the head of the list.

The report attaches great importance to a series of experiments made to ascertain the character, efficiency and keeping qualities of the powders. Baking powders that vary in strength before use, are unreliable and will not give even results; besides, it is an indication of the use of improper ingredients in their compounding. These tests were applied to a large number of samples of different ages of the three cream of tartar powders best known in Minnesota. They showed the strength or leavening power of the Royal, very much greater than that of the others. The uniformity of strength of all the samples of Royal tested was remarkable. Its leavening power was practically unimpaired even in the oldest specimens. The difference in the amount of leavening gas in different samples of both the other brands was so great as to seriously impair their usefulness in baking. As much as 24 per cent. loss was found in samples a few months old. All the samples of Royal examined by Dr. Drew were reported of satisfactory strength and quality.—Globe, St. Paul, Minn.

Teacher's Examination.

According to instructions from the school department, I will hold two public examinations, the first will be held on the 1st and 2nd of March, and the second on the 8th and 9th of March. RESOLVED, By Aurora Lodge No. 100, on the Registry of the Grand Lodge of Minnesota, of Ancient, Free and Accepted Masons, that, while we bow with humble submission to the will of the Most High, we do not the less mourn for our brother who has been taken from us.

RESOLVED, That, in the death of Donald McDonald, this Lodge laments the loss of a brother who was ever ready to protect the hand of aid and the voice of sympathy to the needy and distressed of the fraternity; and active member of this society whose utmost endeavors were exerted for its welfare and prosperity, a friend and companion who was dear to us all; a citizen whose upright and noble life was a standard of emulation to his fellows.

RESOLVED, That while we deeply sympathize with her who was bound to our departed brother by the nearest ties, we share with her the hope of a reunion in that better world where there are no partings, and bliss ineffable forbids a tear.

RESOLVED, That these resolutions be spread upon the records of the Lodge and a copy thereof be transmitted to the widow of our deceased brother, and to each of the newspapers of Brainerd for publication.

ABSOLUTELY PURE

A THRILLING EXPERIENCE.

A Former Brainerdite Tries to Run Down a "Green Goods" Establishment.

The country is now being flooded with circulars from "green goods" men in New York, and the man who has not received one is way behind the times. These circulars purport to be of a strictly confidential nature and usually start as follows:

"I heard of you through a mutual friend who spoke very highly of you as a shrewd, thoughtful man, and one who could be relied upon to keep a secret, and I am desirous of finding such a person to handle my goods. If this proposition is objectionable to you I pray you to destroy this letter and say nothing of its contents to any one," etc.

Then follows a proposition to furnish $4,000 worth of goods for $350, $5,500 worth for $500, and so on, with the privilege of a state right for $650. All business must be done in a strictly personal manner, and no letters will be received. Enclosed is a copy of a telegram which must be addressed to J. S. Stone, 179 East 120th St., N. Y. City. The telegram to be "Certify at 453," by which the dealer knows that a sucker wants instructions and will buy.

The scheme is to get the victim to go to New York and meet them, and then they will be shown a package of genuine bills which they are allowed to examine. When they purchase they are given packages done up, but exposing one genuine bill on the outside, while the remainder of the package does not contain even counterfeit goods—as this is too risky a business nowadays—but merely paper slips. The purchaser is instructed to carry them away in a grip which is provided, and when he finds he has been duped he can make no complaint without exposing himself.

Ed. Mahan, who formerly lived in this city, but who now resides at Little Falls, received one of these letters some weeks since, and being of a curious turn of mind, he answered the telegram in order to see what the result would be. As soon as the mail could bring it came an answer, and enclosed were three bills, a $5, $2 and $1. The instructions told Mr. Mahan to come on immediately and he would be met at Newburg, up the Hudson, about 60 miles from New York City, where the business would be transacted in a certain room at a hotel named in the letter. Mahan was to telegraph to the New York address again as soon as he reached Buffalo, and when he reached Newburg he was to know the man by his hat and a telegram which he was to have in his hands, displayed with large characters written in green ink.

After getting the letter his curiosity was greatly aroused, and the thought that he might be able to run these thieves down for the public benefit urged him to take some action in the matter. He took the $5 bill to a national bank, and with his day's deposit, he showed it under the window, but the cashier did not detect anything wrong with it and Mr. Mahan called his attention to it, saying he was a little suspicious of the bill, but it was examined and the bank expert pronounced it genuine; however, he did not leave it. That night he telegraphed the Pinkerton detective agency at Chicago the facts, and received word back to come on there immediately, which he did the next day, stopping only between trains at Chicago, where he was joined by a detective, the two journeyed east. At Buffalo Mr. Mahan followed the instructions and telegraphed ahead that he was coming, and the detective disguised himself, it being understood that they should keep apart from that time until the final wind-up came. At Newburg he got off the train and walked along the platform when he was suddenly jostled against and looking around he saw a man who said: "Excuse me, I thought I knew you," and in his hand was the telegram with the "green ink" characters. The two walked along and entered the hotel together, and the fellow said to him: "I'm sorry, but the old man couldn't get away, and you will have to go down to New York and see him if you have the money and are prepared to do business." They ate breakfast and the caper paid for it, and also for tickets to New York, to which place they journeyed together, but without speaking, the instructions being for Mahan to keep a hundred feet behind on their way from the car to the "business" place. In the meantime the detective was keeping a reasonable distance behind the two. The caper wound around among the buildings in the vicinity of the river and finally started down a narrow alley, and here the detective halted two policemen who were given the tip. Mahan followed his man down the alley and when he saw him walk up a plank and unlock the door of a warehouse which rested on piling over the river, his heart failed him but as he saw the detective in the vicinity he went in and the door was shut behind him, and he found himself in a large, unlighted room. His situation was not an enviable one, but with a gun in each coat pocket he thought he would be able to hold his own for a short time. Just as the caper called to his confederate in another room the policemen broke open the front door and the two men tried to escape but were captured. There was nothing in the building that would indicate a "green goods" establishment, neither of the men having any money on their persons, nor could any trace of such a thing as a counterfeit bill be found. Each of the men had a good sized slung-shot which was the only weapons they possessed. The men were tried and sentenced to five years in the penitentiary on the charge of using the mail for swindling.

Mr. Mahan fully thinks that their game was to get him into the building and there he was to be knocked down and robbed, as he had telegraphed them he had $500 to invest, and when he reads this article he will feel a certain degree of satisfaction to think he got out of it as lucky as he did, and also that he didn't undertake to run the "green goods" men to earth alone.

THE STRONGEST AND PUREST.

The Official Report of the Minnesota Dairy and Food Commission shows the Superiority of the Royal Baking Powder.

The late report of the Minnesota State Food and Dairy Commission contains the details of the State Chemists' experiments and analyses to determine the strength and keeping qualities of the various baking powders. Samples of the numerous brands on sale in this State were purchased and first analyzed to ascertain their leavening power. The Royal Baking Powder is shown by the tests of both State analysts, Prof. Eberman and Prof. Drew, to contain the greatest amount of leavening gas of the cream of tartar powders thus purchased and tested. Hence this powder is officially ranked at the head of the list.

The report attaches great importance to a series of experiments made to ascertain the character, efficiency and keeping qualities of the powders. Baking powders that vary in strength before use, are unreliable and will not give even results; besides, it is an indication of the use of improper ingredients in their compounding. These tests were applied to a large number of samples of different ages of the three cream of tartar powders best known in Minnesota. They showed the strength or leavening power of the Royal, very much greater than that of the others. The uniformity of strength of all the samples of Royal tested was remarkable. Its leavening power was practically unimpaired even in the oldest specimens. The difference in the amount of leavening gas in different samples of both the other brands was so great as to seriously impair their usefulness in baking. As much as 24 per cent. loss was found in samples a few months old. All the samples of Royal examined by Dr. Drew were reported of satisfactory strength and quality.—Globe, St. Paul, Minn.

Teacher's Examination.

According to instructions from the school department, I will hold two public examinations, the first will be held on the 1st and 2nd of March, and the second on the 8th and 9th of March. The examination will be held in the grand jury room at the court house. The following programme will be observed:

TUESDAY, MARCH 1ST & 2ND.

9 to 11 a. m., Grammar.

11 to 12 a. m., Reading and Spelling.

AFTERNOON.

1:30 to 3:30 p. m., U. S. History.

3:30 to 5:00 p. m., Physiology and Hygiene.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 2ND & 3RD.

9:00 to 12:00 a. m., Arithmetic.

AFTERNOON.

1:30 to 3:30 p. m., Geography.

3:30 to 5:00 p. m., Theory and Practice.

4:30 to 5:00 p. m., Writing.

A graded certificate will not be issued at a private examination, but in place of the graded certificate an ungraded permit will be issued, for which a fee of fifty cents will be charged.

THE GARZA REVOLUTION.

It Has Created Quite a Stir on the Mexican Border.

Mexico has now enjoyed peaceful and constitutional government so long that the Americans were almost rid of their notion that her normal condition was anarchy. For ten years past also there has been such prosperity and peace in the western Texas that both nations almost forgot they had a troublesome frontier. Great was the surprise, therefore, when it was telegraphed that Catalino Garza was "up and a-coming" with anywhere from 2,000 to 10,000 revolutionary Mexicans.

Next came the news that he had captured many Americans, that the Mexican regulars had defeated him at Camp Apache, that he had crossed into Texas and reorganized, that the American regulars had attacked and whipped him, and then that there was fighting, scouting and uneasiness all along the border for 700 miles up from the mouth of the Rio Grande. The last is unquestionably true. A few American soldiers have been killed and several wounded, but there is the best possible understanding between the two nations and troops of both pass and repass the Rio Grande by quiet consent, as they did in the old Apache times.

Catalino Garza is still a young man, remarkably handsome and attractive, six feet three inches high and a lighter from away back. He was born in Mexico, but he had to flee on account of some youthful folly. He graduated from the University of Mexico and served in the army some time, but was guilty of a small untidy and went to Texas. There he married a wealthy lady and started a paper called El Libre Pensador (The Free Thinker), in which he made most frantic attacks on the Mexican government. At Rio Grande city he got into a political tangle and killed at least one man—some say that—escaped prosecution, as it was a "free fight."

He located at Laredo and quarreled with General Martinez, who was afterwards assassinated by somebody, so Garza went to Duval, Tex., and started another violently revolutionary journal. He then crossed the border and there the Texans were too much for him, so he fled again to Mexico, raised a revolutionary band and "marched on the border." Near there the Mexican regulars met and defeated him. This was in September. Now, it would seem, he has friends on both sides of the border and is dividing time impartially stirring up devilment wherever he happens to be.

CLEVER AND UNSCRUPULOUS.

How an Adventurer Fleeced St. Louis Business Men.

"The more magnificent the gentleman the more magnificent the rascal he will make," is a very old saying, but it is as true now as on the day when it was first uttered. This certainly holds true in the case of William Evans, who recently absconded from St. Louis after a residence there of one year, leaving to mourn his disappearance persons and firms whose claims are being sought by his creditors. Evans is a magnificent looking man, about six feet in height and of fine presence. He is fond of good living and horse racing. He went to St. Louis in November, 1890, and with the $10,000 or $15,000 which he had in cash expressed no difficulty in creating the impression that he was quite wealthy. In a few days he was before the St. Louis stock exchange, and before he was the central figure in a large syndicate which was to have been formed for the purpose of buying up the St. Louis stock exchange. Evans was not proud, however, and he next figured prominently as the promoter of a company for putting a cheap puzzle market. By his connection with the St. Louis stock exchange, Evans was able to borrow money from several sources on everything which came under his control. The influence on the business of the St. Louis stock exchange, Evans was able to borrow money from several sources on everything which came under his control. STRANGLED THEIR DOCTOR.

Fate of an Indian Physician Who Had

The conviction of three Yuma braves and their sentence to death for murder in the court at Los Angeles, Cal., marked an important advance in governmental methods of dealing with Indians, and the commutation of their sentence to imprisonment for life, which was granted by President Harrison through the advance a little too rapid for Indian moral nature. They had done nothing more than to kill an old man, according to the law of their tribe, which is that a "doctor" who loses three patients must die.

Local News Notes.

Sunday is St. Valentine's Day.

Several cases of mumps are reported.

Alderman Bain has been spending the week at St. Cloud.

James McKay, of Gull River, lost a horse through the ice Tuesday.

Hose Co. No. 2 will give a grand ball at Gardner Hall on the evening of Feb. 22nd.

Aitkin is agitating a water works system and will vote on the question at the city election.

Sunday evening services at the Baptist church, subject "Lessons from the life of Rev. C. H. Sprague."

Don't forget that the members of Hose Co. No. 2, give a grand ball at Gardner Hall on the evening of Feb. 22nd.

McClennan & Mantor have moved into larger quarters in the bank block, now occupying room 1 at the head of the stairs.

Joseph Maynard, of Crow Wing, and John McClellan, of Mille Lacs, were adjudged insane by the probate court on Tuesday and sent to St. Peter.

Henry Sitherwood has gone to Stevens Point, Wis., and from there will go to Great Falls, Mont., where he has been offered a lucrative position.

John Kennedy, formerly of this city, has leased the first street front of the Butler block in Little Falls, and will open a gent's furnishing store there.

A banquet was tendered True Mooers, Jr., on Saturday evening by a number of his friends, the occasion being the 23d anniversary of his birth. Sanborn furnished the supper.

Immigrants are scarce now and it is said that every available man is being sent into the woods. There are double the number of men at work in the pines this winter to what there was last.

J. W. Bailey returned from Iroquois, Ontario, on Saturday last, where he has been visiting during the past six weeks. He was accompanied by his brother, David Bailey, who will spend the summer here.

At the annual election held Tuesday evening at the Congregational church, Bruce Parker was elected clerk; J. C. Congdon, deacon; D. R. Craig, chorister; Mrs. Lillie Follet, church treasurer; P. M. Lagerquist and A. E. Losey, trustees.

John McGillis, father of Mrs. John Bishop at Gull Lake, died on Sunday at the advanced age of 85 years, the funeral occurring in this city on Tuesday, being conducted by Rev. Father Lawlor. Deceased was one of the oldest residents in this part of the state.

The Aitkin Age says: Miss Lottia Grandelmyer, the fashionable milliner of Brainerd, was in town Monday last, seeking a suitable store building in which to open up a large stock of millinery, etc., on April 1st. She secured one-half of store No. 3, of the Foley block.

A bushel of corn makes four gallons of whiskey, remarks an exchange, which recalls at $16; of this the farmer gets 40 cents, the railroad company $1, the United States $3, the manufacturer $4 and the vendor $7, and the drinker—sixty days and the delirium tremens.

Active preparations are being made by Brainerd Lodge No. 47, A. O. U. W., to celebrate the anniversary of the founding of the order on March 10th. A musical and literary entertainment will be given, and a social hop will probably follow. The lodge is in a very flourishing and prosperous condition, and one of the most popular in the city.

The "Dime Entertainment" at the Y. M. C. A. on Wednesday evening, Feb. 10th, fully sustained the high reputation for superior performances of the local talent of this city. The talent displayed was a marked feature of the occasion, and elicited high commendation from the large audience that was present.

A week from to-day will be the 28th anniversary of the founding of the order of Knights of Pythias, and the occasion will be celebrated in this city by the Brainerd knights with appropriate ceremonies, at Gardner Hall, to be followed by a sumptuous banquet. Several lodges in adjoining cities have been invited.

Have you got a ticket on the plush divan at C. H. Paine & Co's City Meat Market? If not, do so at once. You can secure one by buying your meats there, each cash purchase being punched out until it amounts to $5. You can have as many chances of drawing this elegant piece of parlor furniture as you have tickets. Don't delay, but secure one at once.

The Maennerchor masquerade takes place this evening and bids fair to be a splendid affair.

A new buggy for sale cheap and on easy payments. It has been used only a few times. Owner has no use for it. Apply at this office.

J. F. McGinnis has gone to the markets below for the purpose of laying in a spring stock for the co-operative store of which he is general manager.

An illustrated sermon will be given to the children by the pastor, at the 1st Congregational church, next Sunday morning at 10:30. All children connected with the Sunday school are invited to attend.

W. H. Everest, of Crow Wing, obtained a sub-contract for carrying the mail between this city and Leech Lake, and has already entered upon the work. He will provide the traveling public with suitable accommodations, and proposes to make the route a popular one.

The Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor will hold an anniversary meeting next Sunday evening at the 1st Congregational church. There will be printed programmes prepared especially for the occasion. New music and two short addresses. It will take the place of the evening service, and all interested are invited to attend.

The social given by the ladies of the Presbyterian society on Tuesday evening at the church was a decided success. The was a large attendance, numbering over one hundred. A good programme of literary exercises, music, tableaux, etc., and a nice lunch was served, and the proceeds were $14. These socials will be repeated in the future, trusting in the continued kind patronage of the public.

Another of those regular winter fatalities in the lumber camps occurred at the works of Fales & Wooden on Willow river, the victim this time being a Swede named Martin Olsson, aged 26 years. He was tending chain, and while helping to put on a load one of the logs rolled back on him, killing him instantly. His remains were brought to town and placed in the morgue. A brother in Minneapolis was notified by telegram.—Aitkin Age.

The Criterion Comedy Co. has been filling a week's engagement at the opera house this week, standing room being at a premium on the opening night, the attendance being fair since then. The company contains some very good artists. This evening "Wedding March," a laughable farce comedy will be presented, and on the closing night (Saturday) "Maude Muller," a domestic drama, will be produced. On Saturday evening a plush chair will be given away to the lucky ticket holder. The prices are 10, 20 and 30 cents.

A man named G. Anderson was brought down from Simpson's camp Tuesday night, who had been killed while working at the above place. He was engaged in tending sled and the chain broke letting the logs roll onto him, crushing his breast. As soon as the accident happened the unfortunate man was placed in a sleigh and started for Brainerd for medical aid, but he died just before the team reached Ami Gould's. His remains were brought to Losey & Dean's and prepared for burial, being shipped by his sister, Mrs. Anna Hokinson, at 1610 Jefferson street, N. E. Minneapolis. He was unmarried and about 24 years old.

Deerwood News.

I. F. Lundstedt has recently lost two cows by some unknown disease.

Louis Carlson, who was seriously injured some time ago, is improving.

R. H. Morford has finished harvesting his ice crop and will furnish a supply for Mr. White, the hotel man. Many farmers are also putting up a supply for their use. The recent cold snap has made the ice of excellent quality.

That Deerwood has a dentist and a watch repairer is probably not generally known, but such is the case. Mr. Swenson, the new settler who took a homestead about three miles northwest of the station, is both a practical watchmaker and a dentist, and if anybody has the toothache or a watch that only shows the right time twice in every twenty-four hours can call on him.

FARMER BOY.

At a regular communication of Aurora Lodge No. 100, A. F. & A. M., held on Feb. 10th, 1892, the following preamble and resolutions were unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS, It has pleased the Great Architect of the Universe to remove from our midst our late brother, Donald McDonald, and

WHEREAS, It is but just that a fitting recognition of his many virtues should be had, therefore be it

RESOLVED, By Aurora Lodge No. 100, on the Registry of the Grand Lodge of Minnesota, of Ancient, Free and Accepted Masons, that, while we bow with humble submission to the will of the Most High, we do not the less mourn for our brother who has been taken from us.

RESOLVED, That, in the death of Dugald McDonald, this Lodge laments the loss of a brother who was ever ready to proffer the hand of aid and the voice of sympathy to the needy and distressed of the fraternity; and active member of this society whose utmost endeavors were exerted for its welfare and prosperity; a friend and companion who was dear to us all; a citizen whose upright and noble life was a standard of emulation to his fellows.

RESOLVED, That while we deeply sympathize with her who was bound to our departed brother by the nearest ties, we share with her the hope of a re-union in that better world where there are no partings, and bliss ineffable forbids a tear.

RESOLVED, That these resolutions be spread upon the records of the Lodge and a copy thereof be transmitted to the widow of our deceased brother, and to each of the newspapers of Brainerd for publication.

A TRELLING EXPERIENCE.

A Former Brainerdite Tries to Run Down a "Green Goods" Establishment.

The country is now being flooded with circulars from "green goods" men in New York, and the man who has not received one is way behind the times. These circulars purport to be of a strictly confidential nature and usually start as follows:

"I heard of you through a mutual friend who spoke very highly of you as a shrewd, thoughtful man, and one who could be relied upon to keep a secret, and I am desirous of finding such a person to handle my goods. If this proposition is objectionable to you I pray you to destroy this letter and say nothing of its contents to any one," etc.

Then follows a proposition to furnish $4,000 worth of goods for $350, $5,500 worth for $500, and so on, with the privilege of a state right for $650. All business must be done in a strictly personal manner, and no letters will be received. Enclosed is a copy of a telegram which must be addressed to J. S. Stone, 170 East 120th St., N. Y. City. The telegram to be "Certify at 453," by which the dealer knows that a sucker wants instructions and will buy.

The scheme is to get the victim to go to New York and meet them, and then they will be shown a package of genuine bills which they are allowed to examine. When they purchase they are given packages done up, but exposing one genuine bill on the outside, while the remainder of the package does not contain even counterfeit goods—as this is too risky a business nowadays—but merely paper slips.

The purchaser is instructed to carry them away in a grip which is provided, and when he finds he has been duped he can make no complaint without exposing himself.

Ed. Mahan, who formerly resided in this city, but who now lives at Little Falls, received one of these letters some weeks since, and being of a curious turn of mind, he answered the telegram in order to see what the result would be. As soon as the mail could bring it came an answer, and enclosed were three bills, a $5, $2 and $1. The instructions told Mr. Mahan to come on immediately and he would be met at Newburg, up the Hudson, about 60 miles from New York City, where the business would be transacted in a certain room at a hotel named in the letter. Mahan was to telegraph to the New York address again soon as he reached Buffalo, and when he reached Newburg he was to know the man by his hat and a telegram which he was to have in his hands, displayed with large characters written in green ink.

After getting the letter his curiosity was greatly aroused, and the thought that he might be able to run these thieves down for the public benefit urged him to take some action in the matter. He took the $5 bill to a national bank, and with his day's deposit, he shoved it under the window, but the cashier did not detect anything wrong with it and Mr. Mahan called his attention to it, saying he was a little suspicious of the bill, but it was examined and the bank expert pronounced it genuine; however, he did not leave it. That night the telegraphed the Pinkerton detective agency at Chicago the facts, and received word back to come on there immediately, which he did the next day, stopping only between trains at Chicago, where he was joined by a detective the two journeyed east to Buffalo.

Mr. Mahan followed the instructions and telegraphed ahead that he was coming, and the detective disguised himself, it being understood that they should keep apart from that time until the final wind-up came. At Newburg he got off the train and walked along the platform while looking around for the man who said, "Excuse me, I thought I knew you," and in his hand was the telegram with the "green ink" characters. The two walked along and entered the hotel together, and the fellow said to him: "I'm sorry, but the old man couldn't get away, and you will have to go down to New York and see him if you have the money and are prepared to do business."

They ate breakfast and the capper paid for it, and also for tickets to New York, to which place they journeyed together, but without speaking, the instructions being for Mahan to keep a hundred feet behind on their way from the car to the "business" place. In the meantime the detective was keeping a reasonable distance behind the two. The capper wound around among the buildings in the vicinity of the river and finally started down a narrow alley, and here the detective halted two policemen who were given the tip. Mahan followed his man down the alley and when he saw him walk up a plank and unlock the door of a warehouse which rested on piling over the river, his heart failed him but as he saw the detective in the vicinity he went in and the door was shut behind him, and he found himself in a large, unlighted room. His situation was not an enviable one, but with a gun in each coat pocket he thought he would be able to hold his own for a short time. Just as the capper called to his confederate in another room the policemen broke open the front door and the two men tried to escape but were captured. There was nothing in the building that would indicate a "green goods" establishment, neither of the men having any money on their persons, nor could any trace of such a thing as a counterfeit bill be found. Each of the men had a good sized slung-shot which was the only weapons they possessed. The men were tried and sentenced to five years in the penitentiary on the charge of using the mail for swindling.

Mr. Mahan fully thinks that their game was to get him into the building and there he was to be knocked down and robbed, as he had telegraphed them he had $500 to invest, and when he reads this article he will feel a certain degree of satisfaction to think he got out of it as lucky as he did, and also that he didn't undertake to run the "green goods" men to earth alone.

THE STRONGEST AND PUREST.

The Official Report of the Minnesota Dairy and Food Commissioner Shows the Superiority of the Royal Baking Powder.

The late report of the Minnesota State Food and Dairy Commission contains the details of the State Chemist's experiments and analyses to determine the strength, and keeping qualities of the various baking powders. Samples of the numerous brands on sale in this State were purchased and first analyzed to ascertain their leavening power. The Royal Baking Powder is shown by the tests of both State analysts, Prof. Eberman and Prof. Drew, to contain the greatest amount of leavening gas of the cream of tartar powders thus purchased and tested. Hence this powder is officially ranked at the head of the list.

The report attaches great importance to a series of experiments made to ascertain the character, efficiency and keeping qualities of the powders. Baking powders that vary in strength before use, are unreliable and will not give even results; besides, it is an indication of the use of improper ingredients in their compounding. These tests were applied to a large number of samples of different ages of the three cream of tartar powders best known in Minnesota. They showed the strength or leavening power of the Royal very much greater than that of the others. The uniformity of strength of all the samples of Royal tested was remarkable. Its leavening power was practically unimpaired even in the oldest specimens. The difference in the amount of leavening gas in different samples of both the other brands was so great as to seriously impair their usefulness in baking. As much as 24 per cent. loss was found in samples a few months old. All the samples of Royal examined by Dr. Drew were reported of satisfactory strength and quality.—Globe, St. Paul, Minn.

Teacher's Examination.

According to instructions from the school department, I will hold two public examinations, the first will be held on the 1st and 2nd of March, and the second on the 8th and 9th of March. The examination will be held in the grand jury room at the court house. The following programme will be observed:
